

MHS Photography Students Exhibit at Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards

The work of eight Melrose High School art students has been chosen for exhibit in the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards Photography Exhibit. The students are: Sarah Sherman, Christopher Henchey, Erica Snyder-Drummond, Laura Gillis, Cameret Bannister, Jessie Roh, Liz Alverson, and Haley Scofield. They are all advanced students studying photography in the Melrose High School Art Department. Their photographs, which celebrate both natural and urban environments, encompass portraits, landscapes and still life.

The display is being held at the Massachusetts Transportation Building, 143 Stuart Street, Boston. It will be open to the public from 8:30 AM to 5:30 PM, Monday through Friday and will remain open until November 27th. An Artists' Reception is being held on Sunday, November 22 from 12:00 noon to 4:00 PM and is open to family, friends, and the public.
